

ABSTRACT

A method and system for transmitting common information to a plurality of recipients using a handheld computer is provided. An electronic document is automatically generated including the common 5 information. Customized information may be inserted in the electronic document based on the intended recipient.